

Peter R. Barcinas is a Program Leader for the Economic and Community Systems (ECS) unit with the University of Guam Cooperative Extension Service. Mr Barcinas is your land-grant partner and collaborator bringing many years of experience and programming connected to our community, family, youth and resident instruction, research and service. Under the recent reorganization of Extension programs, this role calls for providing leadership and support of the various programs that promote community well-being and systems building among collaborators, and stakeholders. Mr. Barcinas serves as the liaison for the Western Rural Development Council for Guam and continues to promote team building and leveraging the University based community with our partners and collaborators. Mr. Barcinas also represents the University on the Guam Workforce Investment Board
